Shoestring Multimedia is committed to providing highly responsive customer service in multimedia and CD-ROM production at affordable cost. We have unsurpassed experience in producing custom products which take advantage of the latest in technology and interface usability.

We can work with our clients through a range of developmental stages and circumstance: from initial concept to delivery, from collaborative strategies to influence business performance to the fulfillment of a simple solution for media storage. All our services--interface design, prototype development, programming, media integration, and storage consultation--are explained in plain English, empowering professionals to make well-informed decisions, and afterwards, feel confident that their media decisions were sound and effective.

As CD-ROM and multimedia services continue to evolve, our ultimate goal through media solutions delivery is to provide the breadth of service that will keep client work relevant and competitive. To get started, call Shoestring Multimedia, We're looking forward to working with you.
